PHOTOPOLYMER STAMPS

- Using Stazon ink will stain the stamps more, but DO NOT USE Stazon Ink Cleaner as it will damage your stamps.
- Memento or Stampin' Up!'s Archival inks as well as their Classic inks for standard stamping.
- Inks with any red in them will tend to stain the stamps - (like purples & pinks too)
- The Stampin' Pierce Mat (that I lovingly call the pokey tool mat) helps these stamps work better because they have no foam cushion.

RUBBER STAMPS

- You can tell a quality rubber stamp by its deep etchings and its thick foam cushion layer

ACRYLIC BLOCKS

- Handle these carefully and you won't have to wash them as much.
- Your hands have natural oils in them so try to keep your hands around the edges and away from where they stamps will attach.
- When you do wash them, I find that Dawn works best. Lay them on a paper towel to dry.
